

In Memory of Mrs. Mamie E. Cromer.
Mrs. Mamie E. Cromer, wife of Geo. Cromer, of Pomaria, and daughter of Mrs. T. W. Amick, of Peak, died this life July 2, 1911, aged 22 months and 6 days. She leaves a mother, five brothers, five sisters, a kind husband, a little daughter and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her departure.
She was a young woman lovely of form and feature and of bright and charming disposition, and sympathetic nature and she made friends of all who knew her.
We hated to give her up, but the Lord knew best.
It can truly be said of her that she was faithful to God, loyal to duty, kind to everybody.

The survivors of Company A, 4th Battalion, S. C. V. Infantry, had their annual reunion in Newberry on Thursday. The gathering was in Coppock's grove, where was served a fine barbecue, which had been prepared by Mr. M. Counts, Newberry city's "barberian." An address was delivered by Col. D. A. Dickert, an invited guest. The company was known as the boy volunteer company. They entered the service in the early part of '64 and remained to the end. Mr. Wm. H. In Good Trim.
Charleston Post.
It is mighty good to note that our old friend Hemphill is in his best form, despite his translation to Richmond and his long exemption from the nourishment and inspiration of Charleston. Here is the evidence, from the Times-Dispatch of Tuesday in this present week:
He was the first white man since the earth was formed, so far as there is any authoritative evidence upon the subject, to reach the top of the world, to plant the flag of his country at the North Pole and to bring back from the fields of purple ice through dangers and sufferings that would have conquered a less self reliant man the story of the capture of the farthest north.
He has had enough to make him lose the human touch, to make him even doubt his own good faith, to make him suspicious of those who approach him lest they should take from him the triumphs he is winning on the lecture platform, but with that dogged determination that has sustained him and conscious of his own rectitude of purpose, if not of achievement, he is going right on with the story of how he reached the North Pole before Matt Henson got there. It is one of the wonders of these strange times that this persecuted man, who has received honors from the kings and scholars of the world, and the freedom of cities and the adulation of multitudes, should with all the obstacles that have been erected against him, be still strong enough to plead his own cause and to tell the people of the West of his triumph in the North. Great is Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Original Discoverer of the North Pole!

And great is Hemphill, and well and happy. As long as he remains faithful in the illusion of the Cook myth, he is in normal case and his friends in these, his former haunts, need have no misgivings about his strength and establishment. Hemphill is himself—unless he be Dr. Cook.

Not a Bondholder.
"Father seems impressed with your talk about coupons," said the girl. "Have you really any?"
"Sure," answered the guileful youth. "Got 700 saved up toward the furniture in our little flat."—Pittsburg Post.
